3. Categories of personal data

We process personal data that we receive from you or your employees in the course of establishing, conducting and managing our business relationship. This includes, in particular, the following categories of personal data:

- Master data (e.g. name, company),
- Contact details (e.g. email address, telephone number, postal address),
- Role and company details (e.g. position, area of responsibility),
- Contract and billing data,
- Communication data from business correspondence,
- Documentation and evidence data in accordance with statutory or regulatory requirements,
- Visitor data (e.g. name, company, period of visit),
- Data relating to safety and induction training (e.g. documentation of the completion of safety or induction training, confirmations, time stamps),
- Photographs and video recordings taken during events.

4. Purposes and legal bases for processing

We process your personal data in particular for the following purposes:

- Establishing, maintaining and terminating the business relationship,
- Communication with business partners,
- Supplier and service provider management.

The legal basis for processing for these purposes is the necessity of the processing for the establishment, performance or termination of contractual relationships (Article 6(1), first sentence, point (b) of the GDPR).

In addition, we process your personal data in particular for the purposes of

- to comply with legal and regulatory requirements,
- asserting, exercising or defending legal claims,
- internal and external corporate communications and public relations.

The legal basis for processing for these purposes is the necessity of the processing to safeguard our legitimate interests (Article 6(1), first sentence, point (f) of the GDPR) and, where applicable, the necessity of the processing to fulfil our legal obligations (Article 6(1), first sentence, point (c) of the GDPR).

Where we process personal data on the basis of consent, this is done on the basis of your consent (Article 6(1), first sentence, point (a) of the GDPR). Consent that has been given may be withdrawn at any time with effect for the future.

5. Recipients or categories of recipients

Your personal data will only be disclosed to third parties to the extent necessary to fulfil the purposes set out in section 4. This is particularly the case if

- you have given us your consent in accordance with Article 6(1), first sentence, point (a) of the GDPR,
- the transfer is necessary for the initiation, performance or fulfilment of a contractual relationship in accordance with Article 6(1), first sentence, point (b) of the GDPR,
- we are obliged to disclose the data on the basis of statutory provisions (Article 6(1), first sentence, point (c) of the GDPR); or
- the disclosure is necessary to safeguard our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of a third party in accordance with Article 6(1), first sentence, point (f) of the GDPR, provided that your interests or fundamental rights and freedoms do not take precedence.

Where we engage external service providers to process personal data on our behalf, this is done on the basis of a data processing agreement in accordance with Article 28 of the GDPR.

6. Transfers to third countries

Where personal data is transferred to a third country, this is done exclusively in accordance with the requirements of Articles 44 et seq. of the GDPR. In particular, we ensure that an adequacy decision by the European Commission is in place for the transfer or that suitable safeguards are in place in accordance with Article 46 of the GDPR.

7. Duration of storage and deletion of personal data

We store your personal data only for as long as is necessary for the respective purposes of processing. Where statutory retention obligations apply, the data is stored for the duration of the respective statutory periods.

Furthermore, we store personal data if and to the extent that this is necessary to establish, exercise or defend legal claims.

Once the relevant purpose of processing has ceased to apply, statutory retention periods have expired and any limitation periods have lapsed, the personal data will be deleted, provided there is no other legal basis for further storage.

8. Data subjects' rights

If you have any questions or complaints regarding data protection, our Data Protection Officer will be happy to assist you (see section 2). This includes the right of access under Article 15 of the GDPR, the right to rectification under Article 16 of the GDPR, the right to erasure under Article 17 of the GDPR, the right to restriction of processing under Article 18 of the GDPR, the right to object under Article 21 of the GDPR, the right to data portability under Article 20 of the GDPR, and the right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing under Article 22 of the GDPR.

Where we process data to safeguard our legitimate interests, you have the right to object to such processing at any time on grounds relating to your particular situation.

Where the processing of your data is based on consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time, without this affecting the lawfulness of the processing of your data carried out on the basis of your consent prior to its withdrawal.

To exercise your rights or to withdraw any declaration of consent, please contact the Data Protection Officer using the contact details set out in section 2. Furthermore, without prejudice to any other legal remedies, you have the right at any time to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority. The competent supervisory authority for GASCADE is, in particular,
